Orderville is a Hazy India Pale Ale that blends the fruit-forward character of Mosaic and Sultana hops with the resinous stickiness found in a melange of dank varieties. The resulting beer is immensely rad, with an unmistakably bangin' aroma and a fully saturated hop flavor and finish. The juicy body provides a base-layer upon which the massive, incredibly delicious hop character is built, inviting your taste buds to join a drum circle of flavor in a magical forest of hops.

Fruitlands is tart, fruity, & frighteningly delicious. The sour, salty base beer lays down the funky refreshment, while a heavy dose of passion fruit and guava turns the whole thing into a wall-to-wall tropical fruit fiesta. It's a marvelous mix of elements that collides with your mouth like a fruit-filled asteroid of flavor traveling at the supersonic speed of party.

BLACK HOUSE COFFEE STOUT

It's so great that you like coffee. I just love that about you. Speaking of which, you're holding an oatmeal coffee stout positively redolent with coffee aroma and flavor. It kind of tastes like a chocolate-covered espresso bean, only drier and more like beer. Nifty fact: we're one of the only breweries in the world to roast our own coffee, which allows us to be extremely persnickety about which beans we buy and how we roast them.

This spectacle of West Coast IPA wizardry was lavished with massive quantities of Nelson, Strata, Mosaic, & Centennial hops. Together, this quartet of lupulin-laden stunners yields a soul-stirring symphony of citrus, stone fruit, & tropical character with just enough pleasantly snappy bitterness to really stick the landing. We're pretty psyched about it; we think you might be too.

These new wave American hops impart a remarkable mango lychee aroma and flavor, which we've amplified with the dark stone fruit character of New Zealand-grown Motueka hops. Good ol' American Centennial hops provide a touch of citrus balance to this tropicalfruit party, and the malt body is just assertive enough to support its snappy bitterness.
